HISTORICAL SITES OF THE GRIMALDIS OF MONACO

On 23 and 24 June 2018, Place du Palais will host the first meeting of the "historical sites of the Grimaldis of Monaco". This first event will showcase the Marquisate of Baux and the Earldom of Carladès, places whose titles are associated with Hereditary Prince Jacques and Princess Gabriella, the Marquis of Baux and Countess of Carladès, respectively. The final guest area is the town of Menton, which was part of the Principality for five centuries. Each area will present its cultural and craft heritage. A variety of events will be on offer: puppet shows, dancing and folklore, medieval fighting, games for children, a lavender workshop, the making of traditional santon Nativity scene figurines, a stone cutter, a ceramics workshop, etc. A sound and light show will also be projected onto the Prince's Palace during the evening of Saturday 23 June.

"MONACO AND THE OCEAN" EXHIBITION

From June 2018, the Oceanographic Museum of Monaco will present a new exhibition entitled "Monaco and the Ocean, from Exploration to Protection". The exhibition will focus on the actions taken by the Princes of Monaco to protect the oceans. The work of Prince Albert I, the father of modern oceanography, will be presented through the results of his 28 scientific expeditions. Prince Rainier III's commitment to protecting the Mediterranean will also be showcased, including his collaboration with Commander Jacques Cousteau, who was Director of the Oceanographic Museum for 32 years. Finally, a large part of the exhibition will be devoted to the conservation efforts of H.S.H. Prince Albert II and the latest news from Monaco Explorations. This final section will be updated with the outcomes of the Monaco Explorations missions over the three years from 2017 to 2020.

"PRINCES AND PRINCESSES OF MONACO" EXHIBITION IN CHINA

Having unveiled the splendour of the Forbidden City in Monaco last summer, this year the Grimaldi Forum is exporting to China the "Princes and Princesses of Monaco, A European Dynasty (from the Thirteenth to the Twenty-First Centuries)". This exhibition will trace more than 700 years of the Grimaldi family's history, and will run from 7 September to 11 November 2018 at the Meridian Gate of the Forbidden City. The main hall will be fitted out just like the Prince's Palace. The second hall will be designed as a wedding hall and will display priceless crowns and jewels. H.S.H. Prince Albert II's private art collection will also be exhibited outside the Palace for the first time, reflecting the Grimaldi family's passion for art.

CHILLY-MAZARIN

The link between the Principality of Monaco and the town of Chilly-Mazarin in the department of Essonne dates back to 1777, when Honoré Grimaldi, Prince of Monaco, married Louise Félicité Victoire d'Aumont, heiress to the Dukedom of Mazarin. Through this union, he assumed the titles of Duke of Mazarin, Marquis of Chilly, Longjumeau and Gravigny, and Baron of Massy. Although the barony was abolished during the French Revolution – the family's assets were seized – the Grimaldis have never relinquished their titles. H.S.H. Prince Albert II visited the land of his ancestors on 19 June last year.

BARDI

The ties between Monaco and Bardi date back to 1595 when Hercule Ist Grimaldi marries Marie Landi, sister of Frederic Landi, prince of Val di Toro of which Bardi is one of the fortresses. Following the death of his sister and of Hercule Ist, Frédéric Landi becomes regent and personally cares for his three nephews, one of which is Honoré II, who adopts the title of prince of Monaco in 1612. The Bardi castle still maintains an historic and artistic testimony of the days of Honoré II: Grimaldi coat of arms are portrayed on the ceiling of a room. The possessions of the Grimaldi's in the early XVIIth century are also depicted.

CENTENARY OF THE BIRTH OF NELSON MANDELA

The year 2018 marks the centenary of the birth of Nelson Mandela, who was born on 18 July 1918 and died on 5 December 2013. Freed on 11 February 1990 after more than 27 years in prison, Nelson Mandela remains the symbol of the struggle against apartheid in South Africa. He became the first black president in 1994, a post he held until 1999. He devoted a large part of his term to leading a policy of national reconciliation between blacks and whites. Throughout his life he fought actively but always peacefully for the right to justice and for equality between all people and between genders. It was a hard-fought battle, based on deep values in which he believed and which he put his heart and soul into applying and sharing, by working to combat discrimination, poverty and violence.

EUROPA - BRIDGES

Organised by PostEurop, the contest for the best Europa stamp centers on the theme of "bridges". This stamp represents the Sainte Devote Bridge, which is set in the eponymous valley, overlooking the Church dedicated to the patron saint of Monaco. Originally this bridge was a railway bridge. Since the underground railway station was inaugurated, it has become a road bridge.

NATIONAL SPECIES*THE MEDITERRANEAN SHAG

2015 was marked by a significant discovery: proof that the Mediterranean shag (Phalacrocorax aristoleitis desmarestii) has successfully nested on the cliffs of the Rocher. The only known colony in continental France is in Bouches-du-Rhône, and a nesting couple has not been seen in Var since 2006. This discovery is the first official report of the species nesting in this sector of the Mediterranean coastline. The Principality now occupies a central position in the species' expansion zone.

150 YEARS SINCE THE ARRIVAL OF THE FIRST TRAIN IN MONACO

The history of the railway in the Principality began in 1861 when Napoleon III, keen to develop a significant railway system in France, signed an agreement with Prince Charles III on extending the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean line to Menton via the Principality. Work began in 1864, and the railway station in Monaco welcomed its first train on 19 November 1868. The arrival of the railway in Monaco contributed to the country's extraordinary economic growth.

BICENTENARY OF THE BIRTH OF PRINCE CHARLES III

Charles III, born in 1818, succeeded his father Prince Florestan I in 1856. He reigned until his death in 1889. By founding Monte-Carlo, a new district in Monaco built around the Casino, Charles III launched Monaco's economic growth and its reputation as an intellectual and fashionable centre. Charles III played a major role in affirming Monaco's sovereignty by establishing diplomatic and consular relations, by giving the Principality a national flag, a decoration, the Order of St Charles, and an independent diocese, by once again minting coins, and by issuing the first postal stamp in the Principality's history in 1885.

ASSOCIATIONS AT MONACO Series

150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SAINT ROMAN FEAST COMMITTEE

The Saint Roman Feast Committee was founded in 1868 by a group of Monegasques who wished to honor Roman, a martyred roman soldier who was decapitated during the reign of Valerian on August 9th 258 AD. The festivities – religious and secular – organised by the committee take place between late July and August 9th, which falls on Roman's Patron Saint day. Originally the Committee Members were all Monegasques or inhabitants of the Rocher. It was tradition that a torch was passed from family to family according to the Committee's moto "Per u mantegne dé nostre Tradicjue" (To uphold our traditions). Such is still the case nowadays, and is a display of the strength of the Committee in the conservation of local traditions.

50 YEARS OF THE P.E.N. CLUB OF MONACO

The P.E.N. Club International granted the Principality of Monaco a national P.E.N. branch in 1968. Established in 1921, P.E.N. (Poets, Essayists, Novelists) International is a global, apolitical association with its headquarters in London. Its aim is to defend freedom of expression while rejecting press abuses such as the falsification of facts for political or personal purposes. Armand Lunel, a philosophy teacher at Monaco's Lycée Albert I and the first winner of the Prix Renaudot (1925) was the first President of the P.E.N. Club of Monaco.

MALIZIA II

The Malizia II, which belongs to the IMOCA 60' class, was launched in August 2015. As the Yacht Club de Monaco's flagship ocean racing vessel, the Malizia II symbolises the Grimaldi family's strong love of the sea. The yacht was named in honour of François Grimaldi, nicknamed "the Cunning" ("La Malizia" in Monegasque), who arrived in Monaco by sea in 1297 and established the Grimaldi dynasty. The Malizia II is the first Monegasque vessel to have participated in the Transat Jacques Vabre, in November 2017, with a crew led by Pierre Casiraghi.
